PROFILE

A highly experienced and versatile General Practitioner with a broad clinical, medico-legal, and governance portfolio. I have worked across more than 150 NHS GP practices, developed system-level leadership experience during the COVID-19 pandemic, and currently hold judicial appointments with both the Medical Practitioners Tribunal Service and the First-tier Tribunal (Social Entitlement Chamber). I continue to work as a Freelance NHS GP.

My clinical background spans primary care, private medicine, and complex environments including prisons, immigration centres, and violent patient schemes (previous roles). I am currently developing my practice and qualifications in occupational health medicine, with a particular focus on risk assessment, workplace health, governance, and regulatory compliance.

Alongside my clinical and tribunal work, I bring a strong entrepreneurial and operational background. I have built and operated multiple ventures, overseen service delivery across diverse settings, and developed expertise in business planning, commercial negotiation, process design, operational governance, and strategic stakeholder engagement.

This combination of clinical depth, medico-legal insight, and business acumen enables me to assess risk, evidence, and regulatory standards with a balanced, analytical, and solutions-focused approach.
